

NATIONAL PARK · CANADA · NEW BRUNSWICK

Fundy

at a glance

Twice a day the water rises and falls by twelve metres, as high as a four-storey building. At low tide you walk on the ocean floor.

BEFORE YOU GO

The highest tides in the world

Twice a day, up to twelve metres (39 ft) of water and more flow into the bay and back out again; the park authority compares this to the ...

Walking on the ocean floor at low tide

Put on rubber boots or aqua shoes and walk across mud, sand and seaweed at low water: this is what travellers come to Fundy for.

One hour from Moncton

The park lies on the south-east coast of New Brunswick, on the 250-kilometre (155 mi) Bay of Fundy, near the village of Alma on Highway 114.

The tide table is your day plan

Two high and two low tides a day, with a difference of over twelve metres (39 ft).

Ticks and Lyme disease

The park authority has its own page on tick protection and Lyme disease prevention.

Deer and moose on the road

Deer and moose cross the park roads, especially at dusk.
